

Storm Warnings

In this calm before the storm
The storm collects within the calm
The yearning for fire and cognition
The burning for freedom and recognition

In this fire before the burning
Fires burn within the yearning
Storms glow against a darkened backdrop
Embers glow amongst white ash memories

Hesitation indicates insecurity before the storm
Fires rage beneath a blanket of cloudy dreams
The rain washes the debris of past fires
Clouds yield to sparkling sunlight

Storm warnings cut through the airwaves
Naked in hollow underpinnings, we measure our escape
Naked with fire glowing across the measured arrival
We survive these warnings with glistening heat

Oliver Loveday © 05.11.09.1:45am EDT